English-Russian, Russian-English Electronics Dictionary
Signal Corps Intelligence Agency

This electronics reference volume is being prepared for SCIA in the form of a card index manuscript. Roughly 40,000 English electronic terms, one of the largest enterprises of its kind undertaken by TWS, have been translated into Russian. The second half of the reference will be Russian translated back into English.

From the 80,000 or more equivalent terms SCIA will print its first English-Russian dictionary. TWS will supply a type specification page and a suggested page layout.

We incorporated five sources for the alphabetized card manuscript making this MS the authority for latest possible terms. Editing these cards not only sets the style but determines what shall and shall not be included.

ARMY review(s) completed.
